$\bullet = 120$

Words and Music by Jeanne Loehnis

Verses: 1. To-day I look at where I've been: roads I've traveled, tasks I've done,
 2. To-day I gaze a - head to see that which lies in front of me:
 3. To-day I turn with - in and find Truth a - bundant - Truth that's mine.

how I've felt at the set - ting sun. Who am I, oh bles - sed One?
 realms of pos - si - bil - i - ty. Can I tru - ly be so free?
 Paus - ing, I must take my time. Spi - rit now will send a sign.

Who am I, oh bles - sed One?
 Can I tru - ly be so free?
 Spi - rit now will send a sign.

Chorus: I take a new name to an - swer by.

I take a new name for my true in - ner guide.

Spi - rit is cal - ling me and in the depths I feel ser - ene. I take a new name. I fol - low my self home.

(*) I Take A New Name was written to accompany a "White Stone Ceremony", an annual setting of intentions for the year ahead during which each individual selects a new, very personal "name" as a reminder of his or her intentions.
